(Exact wording is given on all memorials, which are in double inverted commas, in most instances with obliques '/' indicating the ends of lines).

In 1982 a partial survey of grave plots in Marnhull parish churchyard was prepared and typed by an unnamed person, adding inscriptions given on stones. Much of the record is made up of comments and reminiscences of Mr: Cecil Bastable and notes made by the former sexton, Mr: Collis. There was obviously a plan prepared, presumably kept in the church, but not seen by me. Given are nos. 201 to 298 for six rows of memorials to the west of the church, in an area stated to have been added to the churchyard in 1878, which are recorded from west to east and in each row from north to south. Rows A to W are also given in a northern area of the churchyard, stated to have been opened in 1903, which are recorded from east to west and in each row from south to north. These rows only go as far south as a slight slope up to the level of the old churchyard, which was omitted entirely.

In my survey here of 2008, I have retained all the numbering in the 1982 survey for the stones in the West Area, nos.201 to 298, and in the 1903 Northern Extension, rows A to W., so that the plan held by the church, though not available elsewhere, does not require to be amended. These I have checked and corrected, adding any new people dying after 1982. I could not however add new memorials in those areas erected since 1982, as I do not have access to the plan to assign new numbers for them. I have added some stones giving deaths in and before 1982, which might have been missed in the 1982 survey, although another possibility is that those ones weren't erected until after that year. Mine is just a record of inscriptions given, with memorial types, omitting biblical texts and verses - unless they give biographical information. I have also mostly omitted Cecil Bastable's and Mr. Collis's notes. Numbers not given in the Northern Extension are burial plots without memorials on them.

I have newly recorded all the stones - but not burial plots, as they can't be established - in the old churchyard up to 2008, utilising nos.1 to 200 for those on the north side of the church (also including those east of the church) and nos.299 to 307 for those south of the church, with nos.308 to 310 for some vanished memorials, recorded by Hutchins and Treves. Memorials north of the church are recorded in rows from east to west and in each row from north to south. These were recorded from north to south, partly to conform with the West Area, but mainly as I have indicated for each row where they continue southwards from the lettered rows (A to W) in the Northern Extension. Rows 1 to 6 extend right to the southern boundary of the churchyard round the east end of the church, including the War Memorial in the south-east corner. I was only able to confine the memorial numbers to 1 to 200 north of the church by using "a" numbers for all memorials which now bear no inscriptions and also for four modern stones placed on the plots of, and in front of older stones.

A separate survey of church interior memorials has been made in 2008, for which numbers are preceded by the letters "IN". The nave, north chapel, north aisle and west tower are 15th and 16th century Perpendicular. The chancel was rebuilt in 1881, whilst the south nave aisle and south porch replaced in 1852 a mediaeval south transept and south porch. The south choir aisle, now containing the organ, and the vestry north of the chancel were added in 1900. The west tower is very fine, one of the best towers to be found in Dorset. This might have been built under the influence of the Abbots of Glastonbury, as the mediaeval Seniors Farm alongside the church was part of their extensive estates.

In the churchyard, there are a lot of memorials to Drew, Trew and Crew in close proximity to each other, but I hope correctly recorded!

There is a civil cemetery at Marnhull, about half a mile north of the parish church, near the Village Hall and Recreation Ground, which has about 140 memorials in it from 1975 to the present day. Added to this compilation are all the memorials there up to and including 1990, for which numbers are preceded by the letters "CM".

There is a Roman Catholic burial ground alongside the church of St. Mary in Old Mill Lane, Marnhull, with about 120 memorials in it from 1871 to the present day. In a separate compilation, I have recorded all the memorials there up to and including 1990.

Memorials recorded in Hutchins' "History of Dorset", 3rd edition (1870), vol.4, pp.320-322, are marked with an asterick "*".

Memorials recorded in Royal Commission on Historical Monuments, vol.3, pt.2 (1970), pp.151-2, are marked with a cross "+".

An account of the church and many of it's memorials, with photographs of some, including the Royal Coat of Arms and five hatchments, is given in "The Marn'll Book" (Gillingham, 1952), pp.85-91.

CHURCH INTERIOR

The South Choir Aisle, which was built in 1900, filled by an organ with a choir vestry, contains no memorials except some framed "Baptismal Rolls" and "Cradle Rolls", with photographs of clergy and choir. The West Tower also contains no memorials.

The only parish named Worthen in England is in Shropshire).

VANISHED CHURCH INTERIOR MEMORIAL

IN51)* Tablet on south wall of chancel in 1870. "Sacred to the memory of Alfred and John Walter, sons of the late Joseph Henry BUTTERWORTH, Esq: of London, and Mary Ann, daughter of Thomas STOCK, Esq: of Henbury Court, Gloucester. John Walter died March 20, 1833, in his eleventh year. Alfred died March 25, 1833, aged 14 years. Their remains are interred in one grave near this spot" (PR: neither were interred here in 1833 nor (if the year has been misread) in 1835, 1853 and 1855. My conclusion is that this memorial was never in this church, but probably in a church in Gloucestershire or London, but incorrectly printed by the editors of Hutchins' "History of Dorset" (3rd.edition 1870) as being here!)

CHURCHYARDNorth Side of the Church

(Recorded in rows from east to west, and in each row from north to south. Rows 1 to 6 extend right to the southern boundary of the churchyard round the east end of the church, including the War Memorial in the south-east corner. Some of the rows are rather crooked, as the system of rows for Victorian memorials were different from earlier ones, and then there has been a number of modern memorials erected using yet another system of rows! Memorials with "a" numbers are those which bear no inscriptions, and four modern memorials placed in front of and within the plots of older stones. This area was generally being reused for most parish interments between c1959, when the north extension was largely filled, up to 1975 when the civil cemetery opened, with a few 'grace and favour' for after 1975)

West Side of the Church

Known in the 1982 survey as the 'western section', stated to have been added to the churchyard in 1878, which is six rows from west to east, and in each row from north to south, ending at a grass pathway, which leads from the church tower to the west end of the 'Northern Extension'. The first row, closest to the west boundary wall, contains a number of cremation stones, many of which have been installed since 1982. No.214A was recorded in 1982. Nos. 267A and 277A were just burial plots with no memorials on them in 1982, but memorials have now been erected on them. Nos. 214b and 235a I have added. This area was mainly being filled between 1878, when it was opened, up to 1903, when the North Extension was opened, with quite a lot of later infilling up to 1975, with a lot of cremation stones 1974 to the present day.

South Side of the Church

(few memorials, as the church is close to the southern boundary wall, recorded from east to west)

- 299)+ Small Headstone (with carved faces of a boy and a girl, with wings) (in two columns).
Left-hand column: "Here lyeth / the body of / William, ye son / of William / CREW and Ruth / his wife, who / died ye 27th of / June 1724". Right-hand column: "Here allso / lyeth Ruth, ye / daughter of / William Crew / and Ruth, his / wife, who died / ye 25th of Decembr: / 1724" (two lines of verses all the way across the bottom).
- 300)* Headstone (surmounted by a cross) and kerb. "Sacred / to the memory of / Ernest Bruce KENNARD / third son of / the Revnd: Robert Bruce Kennard, M.A. Oxon / Rector of this parish / departed this life December 14th 1864 / aged 8 years".
- 301). Top (with massive iron rivets) and base of a 17th century Chest Tomb, which has lost its side panels. No inscriptions.
- 302). Coped Stone (inscription around the edge). "In loving memory / of / Ann Grace KENNARD / wife of the Rev: R.B. KENNARD, M.A. Rector of this parish, who died / January 1, 1878 / aged 49".
- 303). Rustic Cross, with anchor and chains, and kerb (inscriptions are on imitation book covers). "In memory of / my beloved husband / the Revd: Robert / Bruce KENNARD, M.A. / for 37 years / Rector of this parish / who fell asleep / March 10th 1895 / in his 71st year / Also / in loving memory of / Marie Magdalene / widow of / the late Revd: Robert / Bruce Kennard, M.A. / went to rest April 8, 1897".

- 304)* Top and base of an 18th century Chest Tomb, lacking the side panels which bore inscriptions. This is probably the chest tomb recorded in Hutchins' "History of Dorset" in 1870, which may have lost its side panels and been moved to this position south of the south nave aisle when the south choir aisle or organ chamber was built in 1900. Inscriptions recorded by Hutchins as: "Richard GALPIN, died Jan: 10, 1776, aged 78 / Mary Galpin, died Sept: 18, 1766, aged 73 / In memory of / Mary ROSE, who / departed this life / April 15, 1768 / aged 17 years / Also in memory of / Mary Galpin, mother to / the above mentioned / Mary Rose, and late wife to / Richard Galpin, who / departed this life June / 27, 1798, aged 69 years / William SENIOR, died Oct: 11, 1768, aged 49 / Mary Senior, died April 23, 1804, aged 77 / Christopher Senior, died August 11, 1762, aged 75 / Mary Senior, died May 5, 1762, aged 72 / Samuel STEPHENS, died April 16, 1739, aged 51 / Thou stander by / First learn to live, and then to die / As thou art, so once was I / As I am, so must you be / Therefore prepare to follow me". (Note: it is just possible that the Senior and Stephens inscriptions were recorded on other 'vanished' memorials, quite unconnected with Galpin and Rose) (PR: confirms that most of these are correct. However Richard Galpin was not buried here in 1776, nor Mary Senior in 1804, and Samuel Stephens was not buried here in 1739)
- 305)* Top and base of an 18th century Chest Tomb, lacking the side panels which bore inscriptions. This is probably the chest tomb recorded in Hutchins' "History of Dorset" in 1870, which may have lost its side panels and been moved to this position south of the south nave aisle when the south choir aisle or organ chamber was built in 1900. Inscriptions recorded by Hutchins as: (with coat of arms, "on a fesse, three estoiles"). "Phillis DALTON, only sister of Nicholas JOYCE and wife, died July 5, 1790, aged 68" (PR: "Phillis, third wife of Revd: Mr: Dalton" buried 11 January 1790).

On south slope: "(one line illegible) / Charles PARSONS / died April 7th 1841?, aged ... / Also of Elizabeth Waugh Parsons / daughter of the late William MOORE / who died July / aged 92" (PR: Charles Parsons was not buried here 1840-82; "Elizabeth Waugh Parsons" buried 27 July 1882, aged 92). On north slope: "Edwin Thurborne Parsons / who died June 1?, 1872 / aged / Also to the memory of / Elizabeth Moore / who died March 2nd 1907 / aged 86 years" (PR: "Edwin Thurborne Parsons" buried 20 June 1872, aged 47).
- 307)+ Chest Tomb (north and east panels are blank). West panel: "Mary, the wife of Robert / MOORE, G... (Gent?), was interred / Sep: the 30 in 1663 / Frances, the wife of Tho: / TUTT and daughter of ye said / Robert Moore, was interred / Janu: ye 24, 1670 / (two lines of verses)". Left-hand south panel (dug down deep below the ground, but couldn't reach the last line): "Here lieth the body of / Ann, wife of William Moore / of King Mill, buried / the 13 day of Novembr: / 1702 / John Moore was buried / 1? day of June /" (PR: "John Moore, of Todber" buried 6 June 1704). Right-hand south panel (this was a struggle, due to an elder growing in front of it. I cut the elder down to the ground, but couldn't dig down to read the lower part of the inscription, as the elder roots prevented me doing so!): "Here lieth the body of / William Moore, the sonne / of William Moore of / (remainder inaccessible)" (PR: "William Moore" buried 12 Dec 1691). (RCHM only says of this stone: "Members of the Moore family of King's Mill, 1663, 1691, 1702". PR: proves that "1691" is indeed the year for the inaccessible right-hand south panel).

A Ruth Warren was buried in 1736, which might be his wife)

Northern Extension

Opened in 1903. Memorials recorded in rows lettered A to W from east to west, and in each row, numbered, from south to north. Numbers omitted are plots which have no memorials on them. M9a is given in the 1982 survey, K32a and R6a I have added. S41x is given in the 1982 survey and is a displaced headstone leaning against the north wall of the churchyard, which was presumably removed there from an unknown site in the old churchyard. There are ten memorials in rows C to K which were recorded in 1982, but which have disappeared in 2008. A man I met in the churchyard said that a number of kerbstones had been removed, to make mowing of this area easier. He said it was only later realised that some of these had people recorded on them; this probably accounts for most of the losses.

Row A

- A4). Headstone (surmounted by a cross). "In loving memory / of / Herbert George BASTABLE / who fell asleep June 4th 1902 / aged 56 years / Also of Mary Jane / wife of the above / who died Dec: 15th 1920 / aged 74 years".

On headstone: "In loving memory / William Fred BASTABLE / who passed away September 28th 1951 / aged 80 years / Jessie Eliza Bastable / beloved wife of the above / who died November 26th 1955 / aged 83 years". However in 1982 the following inscription was given, which probably was on a kerb around it, which has now been removed: "In loving memory of Frederick James PALMER, 4th May 1870 - 19th August 1947. Also his beloved wife, Anne Palmer, 3rd September 1869 - 2nd October 1946".

Ian Barnabus Carter not buried here 1952-6).

- D38). Small Headstone (in the form of a scroll) and Flower Holder. On headstone: "Harry Fred / ROLLS / 1887 – 1973". On flower holder: "In loving / memory of / Edith Oakley / Rolls / died / 6th Jan: 1957 / aged 64".

Row F

- F1). Wooden Cross set in stone base (1982 survey says "the wood has decayed" and the inscription was probably only just legible. It still exists in 2008 covered in ivy, but I made no attempt to clear the ivy to check the inscription). "In memory of William John GALPIN, called home August 23rd 1930, aged 82 years" (PR: confirms this is correctly recorded).
- F13). Headstone. "In loving memory / of / Ada Maud / the beloved wife of / Albert SPITTLE / who died Dec: 29, 1911 / aged 38 years".

Row G

- G1). Recorded in 1982, not found in 2008. This was probably a headstone, as an uninscribed kerb flush with the ground still exists on this plot. "In loving memory of Giles J. LEWIS, died April 10th 1889, aged 32. Also Anna, his wife, died September 15th 1939, aged 82".

- I 24). Small Headstone. "A family at rest / with loving memories of / Harry & Annie / PLOWMAN / Also their daughter / Blanche / reunited together" (no dates. In 1982 this plot was marked as for 'Plowman', but with no stone on it. Presumably therefore one, at least, of these people died before 1982. PR: 1970-92 produced a possible entry for the second person, "Mary Annie Plowman" buried 18 Nov 1975, aged 93).
- I 26). Headstone. "In loving memory of / Albert Edward FUDGE / who died Feb: 26th 1935 / aged 29 years / Also to the memory of / his dear father, Cpl: J. Fudge / killed in France / the beloved husband of Agnes Fudge" (no date). In 1982 the following people were also given, but not found on this headstone in 2008; probably the explanation is that they were given on a kerb to it, now removed: "Also of Agnes Mary Fudge, who died 22nd August 1948, aged 68 years. And Horace George Fudge, died 23rd August 1976, aged 72 years".
